Changing Global Dynamics with Special Focus on Jammu and Kashmir was inaugurated by the former Vice Chief of Army Staff Honorable Lt. Gen. (Retd.) Milan Naidu, Chairman, MP Private University Regulatory Commission Prof. (Dr.) Akhilesh Kumar Pandey, Executive Director of South Asian Institute for Strategic Affairs (SAISA) and Director, India Foundation Captain Alok Bansal, Shri. Ashutosh Bhatnagar, Sr. Journalist and Secretary, Jammu Kashmir Study Centre and the Honorable Vice Chancellor, Jagran Lakecity University Prof. (Dr.) Anoop Swarup. The Seminar was organized by JLU School of Law, Jagran Lakecity University in collaboration with Jammu Kashmir Study Centre and Barkatullah University, Bhopal which consisted of plenary sessions addressed by experts of Geopolitical Matters and Jammu and Kashmir affairs on March 31 and April 1, 2018.

During the inaugural session, Prof. (Dr.) Anoop Swarup gave his opening remarks on the issue to set the theme of the workshop. In his talk, Prof. Swarup talked about hostilities faced by India from its neighbors and crucial aspects to be explored while designing the diplomatic approaches in future to tackle such adversities. He emphasized on challenges which India is facing on the economic front with the emergence of hostile neighbor alliances. Prof. Swarup invoked youngsters present in the audience to develop sensitivity on intricate details related to Jammu Kashmir issues.

The Guest of Honor, Captain Alok Bansal gave a detailed account of changing dimensions of geopolitical scenario as a result of assertion of ideologies. He talked about globalization because of which almost every region in the world is connected to another; that further creates a greater need to understand the talked about region from within. He also provided some valuable information about Jammu and Kashmir to develop a better exposure on the region and subsequently to understand the growing security challenges.

The Key Note Address was delivered by Honorable Lt. Gen. (Retd.) Milan Naidu, PVSM, AVSM & YSM, wherein he narrated the British strategy to exhaust resources of its colonies to equip themselves with control over many regions which later created many adversities for the Indian Sub Continent region. He explained how economic supremacy has allowed China to take decisions that are creating limitations for many nations across the world. While providing the historical background of the Jammu and Kashmir issue, he categorically analyzed the strategies adopted by both India and Pakistan resulting in the current situation.

The Chairman Remarks and Vote of Thanks was delivered by Prof. (Dr.) Akhilesh Kumar Pandey in which he encouraged the young scholars to explore the issue with thought provoking research so as to ensure a productive dialogue on the challenges faced by India as a nation. He appreciated the support rendered by Jagran Lakecity University to organize such a meaningful workshop attended by many retired Military Officers, J&K Experts, Scholars, former Bureaucrats, Academicians, and Students.

In the plenary session, Rashtriya Prachar Pramukh, RSS and an expert on J&K related issues Shri.

Arun Kumar and Ms. Ayushi Ketkar, Researcher from New Delhi gave their presentations on the relevant topics and also took questions from the participants.

April 1, 2018 became a memorable day for the Jagran Lakecity University, JLU School of Law as Honorable Minister of State for External Affairs Shri. M.J. Akbar visited the University to deliver the Valedictory Address in the Two Day National Seminar on India's Security Challenges in the Light of Changing Global Dynamics with Special Focus on Jammu and Kashmir.

In picture – Shri. M.J. Akbar during his illustrious address in the seminar

While addressing an impressive audience having retired army officers, bureaucrats, former diplomats, academicians, scholars, experts on J&K and students, Shri. M.J. Akbar gave a reference of colonial history which played its role in creating the environment of adversities. He talked about the changing definition of security matters as in the modern perspective it is not all about securing land but also to protect a wide spectrum of resources that can be targeted by enemies. He termed bilateral relationship between India and China as an example to be followed wherein despite having differences; both the countries have maintained maturity in their dialogue. He talked about the changes in Foreign Policy brought by the current government to develop unprecedented ties with nations which were not approached sincerely in past. According to him, the same policy is paying dividends to the stature of India on the global stage.

Honourable Chancellor Shri. Hari Mohan Gupta while commenting on unrest in the J&K region, talked about impact that quality education can have to improve the situation. He urged that the government and social bodies must take steps to establish centers of higher education in the valley to sow the seeds of wisdom which has the power to transform the psyche for the betterment of society and help mainstreaming the J&K youth.

In picture – Shri. M.J. Akbar expanding the horizons of the discussion in his speech

Senior Journalist Shri. Ashutosh Bhatnagar gave a brief introduction of Jammu Kashmir Study Centre and its activities of spreading awareness on J&K. Director of India Foundation Captain Alok Bansal presented the gist of the Seminar and shared some important learning outcomes from the sessions held.

In pictures – (L) Dr. Raghvendra Sharma (R) Captain Alok Bansal addressing the gathering

Honorable Vice Chancellor Prof. (Dr.) Anoop Swarup delivered the opening address earlier in the Valedictory Ceremony in which he talked about relevance of having a constructive discourse on security issues to find key areas of improvement. At last, the Chairman of Madhya Pradesh State Commission for Protection of Child Rights Dr. Raghvendra Sharma delivered the vote of thanks.

2.3. Orientation Address by Shri. Salman Khurshid

July 29, 2017 became a memorable day for the Jagran Lakecity University, JLU School of Law, its faculty and students as eminent jurist, politician, former Union Minister of Law & Justice and External Affairs, Mr. Salman Khurshid graced the Orientation Ceremony for the newly admitted students with his benign presence as the Chief Guest.

A living legend in the legal profession, Mr. Khurshid began his impeccable address by congratulating the students for choosing law and referring them as 'Young Lawyers'. He then informed about advocacy skills in which behavioral aspects play a vital role. Mr. Khurshid acknowledged 'wit' as a useful tool to keep intact the composure during adverse situations. He recollected the beginning of his career as a young lawyer when literature influenced his decision making abilities especially the book titled 'The Little Prince'.

In picture – Shri. Salman Khurshid delivering the Orientation Address

Proceeding with his erudite session, he shared some valuable experiences with the young gathering which also included new entrants to the legal education. Undoubtedly, nothing could be more precious to our young law students than having a seasoned lawyer talking about his own evolution from being a law student to a legal luminary who is renowned across the globe.

In Picture – the gathering patiently listening to each and every word of the renowned jurist Shri. Salman Khurshid

Mr. Salman Khurshid also recalled his long standing association with Jagran Social Welfare Society (the promoting body of JLU) and the Honorable Chancellor Shri Hari Mohan Gupta and termed his visit to JLU a nostalgic experience. He appreciated the efforts of the University for creating ideal environment to instill in students a proactive approach towards learning of law.

In picture – Shri. Salman Khurshid and Hon'ble Chancellor Shri Hari Mohan Gupta on the dais

The Honorable Chief Guest shared his views on importance of humanity and responsibility of young lawyers as future torch bearers of the nation and invoked the conscience for taking initiatives to ensure “future happiness” – an essential characteristic of a human being. He insisted on the importance of preservation of the blend of our spiritual, cultural and philosophical teachings which is important for India in order to maintain its position as Soft Power in the globalized world.

Thereafter, the session was opened for interaction and students took this glorious opportunity with open arms and asked questions relevant to many contemporary legal issues such as, arrest in dowry cases, the status of triple talaq, etc.

In picture – (L) Hon'ble Chancellor Shri. Hari Mohan Gupta making the Presidential remarks , (R) Hon'ble Vice Chancellor Prof. (Dr.) Anoop Swarup sharing his words of wisdom.

Presidential Remarks were made by Honorable Chancellor, Mr. Hari Mohan Gupta, in which he fondly recalled his association with Mr. Khurshid and thanked him for honoring the University with his gracious presence.

Dr Satvinder Singh Juss Ph.D (Cantab) FRSA, is a Professor of Law at King's College London UK, a Barrister-at-Law practising from 3 Hare Court, Temple, London, EC4Y 7DR, and a Deputy Judge of the Upper Tribunal (IAC) in London and Birmingham. He is a former Human Rights Fellow at Harvard Law School, Boston, USA, and began his working career as a Fellow of Emmanuel College Cambridge. He has been a Migration Commissioner at the Royal Society of Arts and contributed to the report in November 2005 on 'Migration: A Welcome Opportunity', and more recently worked with the Centre for Social Justice in their work on Human Trafficking, which led to anti-trafficking legislation being passed in 2015. As he Barrister, he has acted for government of Belize, Bermuda and Trinidad (and was the first non-QC to have been admitted at the Trinidad Bar) undertaking commercial litigation. He has published widely on the subjects of human rights, constitutional law, and international refugee law. Professor Juss is fluent in Punjabi and Urdu and Swahili.

2.4.1. Lecture and Interaction on 'Death Penalty in India'

"An eye for an eye makes the whole world blind" starting with the very famous quote by Mahatma Gandhi, Prof. (Dr.) Satvinder Singh Juss, Professor of Law, King's College London began his talk on 'Death Penalty in India'.

Jagran Lakecity University, School of Law organized this very special session in collaboration with King's College London exclusively for the First Semester Students of B.A.,LL.B. (Hons.), BBA,LL.B. (Hons.), B.Com.,LL.B. (Hons.), LL.M. and LL.B.

During the introductory part, Dr. Juss took opinion of the gathering on viability of Death Penalty in the contemporary social scenario. He established the talk with analyzing international perspectives on capital punishment and the role played by various non-governmental organizations to bring out relevant statistics which he utilized to explain the gravity of the situation. Dr. Juss, in the most articulated manner, used examples of 26/11 Terrorist Attack in Mumbai, Mukhtaran Mai, Nirbhaya etc. To build his argument that whether Death Penalty should be abolished or not. He gave an example of the first South African Case after the end of Apartheid Movement in which it was declared that death penalty is unconstitutional in nature. He also placed reliance on O.J. Simpson Case to further establish his point that Death Penalty should be abolished.

According to him, protection of society is the focal point in formulating penal policies and death penalty does not fulfil the same purpose. He was quite averse to the idea of death penalty being a deterrent. He emphasized that state should not lower down its moral stature to that of criminal by prescribing the capital punishment. Dr. Juss talked about the 'Ubuntu' Principle in order to establish his point and persuade the audience that capital punishment is against the 'Principle of humanity' and is not viable in contemporary society.

2.4.5. Two-Day Certificate Course on British vs. Indian Constitutional System

Day One

Doing justice to its motto, 'Igniting Minds, Changing Lives', Jagran Lakecity University, School of Law, in collaboration with King's College London, began a Two-Day Certificate Course on 'British vs. Indian Constitutional System' for the Second Year students of B.A.,LL.B. (Hons.), B.Com.,LL.B. (Hons.) & B.B.A., LL.B.(Hons.) in the presence of Chief Guest, Mr. Maithili Sharan Gupta (IPS), Special Director General of Police (Police Reforms), Madhya Pradesh and Key Resource Person, Dr. Satvinder Singh Juss, Professor of Law, King's College London.

In pictures – (L) Dr. Juss addressing the students, (R) Mr. Gupta encouraging the budding lawyers

In his inaugural address, Mr. Maithili Sharan Gupta, precisely and lucidly, explained the distinctions between Indian Constitutional System and British Constitutional System. Mr. Gupta, while interacting with the participants spoke on 'Right to Privacy'. He quoted freedom fighter Bal Gangadhar Tilak "Freedom is my birth right and I will have it" and motivated the students to become the torch bearers of the society they live in and mould it in a positive way as per the vision and mission of Constitution of India.

First technical session of the course was on 'Indian Supreme Court's Judgment on the Gay Rights' issue. Dr. Juss began with enlightening the participants on the issue of LGBTI rights, succinctly. He referred to the Hart-Devlin Debate in relation to moral offenses and same sex relations. Dr. Juss was of the view that discrimination on involuntary grounds should not be allowed and for him sexual orientation of a person falls within the ambit of involuntary grounds.

Citing various examples from U.K., U.S.A., Holland, etc. And discussing recent Indian Supreme Court Judgments, Dr. Juss emphasized that sexual orientation is an essential attribute of privacy.

Following this intellectual and enriching address by Dr. Juss, students were given opportunity to put forth their queries to the key resource person. The line of interaction between the students and Dr. Juss was impressive as the former posed some really pragmatic questions pertaining to the subject.

Day Two

On second day, the technical session was devoted to 'Right to Privacy'. Dr. Juss threw light on various aspects of right to privacy by taking up issues like right to die, Infertility treatment, prisoners' conjugal rights, right to abortion, intelligence information etc.

He was of the opinion that right to choose is an element of right to privacy and that notion of personal autonomy is underlining principle of privacy rights.

Later on, the session was open for students to put forth their queries, which were really interesting and thought provoking at the same time. Dr. Juss was elated to answer the queries posed to him and discussed in detail the issues brought up by the participants and was curious to know the views of students too. Certificate course ended with the valedictory session and distribution of certificates to students.

Bhopal Media had the opportunity to interact with Dr. Juss during his visit to JLU

Tug-of-war between legislature & judiciary is healthy for Indian social matrix. Constitution, too, needs to change with time

'Only judiciary can check those in power from behaving like nawabs'

Prof Satvinder Juss, prof of Law at King's College, London, is on a visit to JLU

DD Post Correspondent

Bhopal: Happy with recent decisions taken by the Indian apex court on issues such as triple talaq and individuals' privacy, Prof Satvinder Juss, a professor of law at King's College, London, while on a visit to Jagran Lakecity University for a workshop on law, told DD Post that Indian judiciary is doing a fantastic job and that it is capable of making those in power stop behaving like nawabs. Prof Juss, a former Human Rights Fellow at Harvard Law School, is an expert on Indian & British Constitution. Here are the excerpts:

ANS: India is going through a social churning whereby the majority Indians are very young having the potential of yielding something known as 'demographic dividend',

Q: It is an established fact that Indian Constitution is one among the finest in the world, yet if there were improvement areas, what would they be?

ON THE GLOBE: The world is transitioning from industrial age mentality to a development format that wants to take care of the natural environment as climate change is one of the most important global challenges the world is facing.

INDIAN POLITY is slowly becoming conscious of the climate related issues as was evident in MP's CM taking out Narmada yatra and Modi stressing on renewable energy, yet the majority political class is still raising issues which may attract people's immediate attention but they may not be relevant to India's interests.

THERE ARE CERTAIN provisions present in the Constitution which safeguards the political class at the cost of the people.

AREAS OF IMPROVEMENTS IN CONSTITUTION OF INDIA

1 Powers, privileges and immunity provided to the members of parliament and the state assemblies provided under Article 105 and Article 194 are still not clear. The articles say that they will be such as defined by the parliament. It is high time that the parliament defines the same.

2 Anti-defection law needs to be rounded up. According to the 10th Schedule of the Constitution, a member can be disqualified if he/she "voluntarily gives up membership of a party". However, the parties are left untouched when they form alliances with their adversaries.

3 Collective responsibility as mandated by Article 75 (3) needs change as it says that the council of ministers shall be collectively responsible to the House which implies that an individual minister may get away with even those decisions he might have taken without consultation with the council.

4 Directive principles enshrined in the Constitution list aspirations of the people as objectives of the governance. However even after 70 years of independence, objectives like right to an adequate means of livelihood to all, ownership and control of material resources of the community to serve the common good, availability of opportunities and facilities for the children to develop in healthy and dignified manner are yet far from being realised. The judiciary has indeed covered issues under Article 21, yet the political class needs to do its job more diligently as the judiciary cannot make laws on behalf of the legislature. Who will raise them?

2.5. Address by noted international arbitrator Mr. Tom Valenti

"India needs institutionalized reforms in ADR regime" – Thomas P. Valenti (Tom Valenti)

Doing justice to the motto of the university i.e. Igniting Minds, changing lives, Jagran Lakecity

University, JLU School of Law proudly welcomed Thomas P. Valenti (Tom Valenti) an Attorney, a renowned Arbitrator, Mediator and Facilitator to have an interactive session with the students of School of Law, and enrich them with the skills required to tackle the practical intricacies which various stakeholders in Alternative Dispute Resolution arena faces.

In picture – Mr. Tom Valenti addressing students

Mr. Valenti being highly enthusiastic and energetic started interaction with the students by precisely introducing the key terms involved in the Alternative Dispute Redressal (ADR) field. Mr. Valenti expressed his concerns with the state of current ADR regime in India which is not as paced as it is in USA and Canada and he was of the firm opinion that there is a need to develop institutionalized system in India. Mr. Valenti suggested the inclusion of experienced corporate professionals in the arbitration panel and limiting the number of retired judges as an arbitrator to specific cases only so as to make it more transparent and paving way for creating more institutionalized system in India too.

Mr. Valenti opined that letting foreign law firms to enter India will eventually benefit Indian professionals by enhancing their standard of practice in ADR regime as they will be able to observe from closer proximity the institutionalized system which is currently being practiced in countries like USA and Canada.

In picture – Faculty and students of JLU School of Law with Mr. Tom Valenti

He was very keen to hear from the students and take their queries. He appreciated the kind of questions asked by students which included institutional arbitration, prospect of online arbitration etc. Mr. Valenti while specifically answering to one question relating to skills required in a good mediator said that patience is of an utmost importance which a mediator should have in addition to good communication skills which is needed in developing connection with the parties in disputes.

The session ended with the concluding remarks given by Prof. (Dr.) C.A. Gurudath and vote of thanks by Prof. (Dr.) Yogendra Srivastava. The session was compared by Ms. Apoorva Dixit.

2.6. Shri. Ram Jethmalani and JLU Chair on Criminal Law and Criminal Justice Lecture by Hon'ble Mr. Justice (Retd.) Ved Prakash Sharma

Shri. Ram Jethmalani and JLU Chair on Criminal Law and Criminal Justice of Jagran Lakecity University, JLU School of Law organized a Chair Lecture by Honorable Mr. Justice (Rtd.) Ved Prakash Sharma, High Court of Madhya Pradesh on the topic “Developing Trends in Victimology”.

Justice Sharma in his impressive talk on the subject provided a holistic understanding of Victimology by examining the dimensions of justice system prevailing in India.

In pictures – (L) Justice Sharma inspiring budding lawyers, (R) Dr. Sbhobha Bhardwaj, In-charge of the Chair lighting the lamp in the august presence of Justice Sharma, Prof. (Dr.) Anoop Swarup and Prof. (Dr.) C.A. Gurudath

He explained that in the prevailing system accused remains in the focal point whereas the victim finds it difficult to have his say. By giving reference of recommendations made by the Justice Malimath Committee, Justice Sharma opined the justice system and especially the element of filing an FIR need to take victim's plight into account.

Justice Sharma thoroughly explained the historical aspect of the evolution of the term 'Victimology' by citing work of Benjamin Mendelsohn who coined the term for the first time. He also referred to the importance of conferences held at Jerusalem and Boston that highlighted the issue for further deliberation. While commenting on the role played by justice system, he said that often the victim of a crime becomes the victim of the system itself during the process.

In pictures – the audience relishing the opportunity to hear from the erudite speaker

He stressed upon the issue of access to justice system for victims of the country and emphasized that approximately 50% victims are deprived of it. In a detailed manner, Justice Sharma listed out the reasons behind such anomaly comprising of lack of fair treatment, inadequate representation in the prosecution, lack of legal assistance, lack of protection of victim and also lack of restitution of the victims status before the occurrence of crime. During his talk, Justice Sharma cited many cases and incidents from his professional service which made way for further talk on Victimology. Students finally got the opportunity to ask questions to the distinguished former member of the judicial service and they capitalized on the opportunity by asking questions relevant to contemporary issues such as installing CCTV camera in the court room and use of technology to create a transparent justice system.

2.7. Lecture by Shri. Arun Kumar

Shri Arun Kumar, National Convener, Jammu & Kashmir Study Center, New Delhi who is an expert on Constitutional Framework (Article 370) pertaining to Jammu & Kashmir issue visited the University on June 27, 2017 and met Faculty of School of Law to discuss historical perspective, present situation and future possibilities of the J&K issue.

In picture – Shri. Arun Kumar interacting with the faculty of JLU School of Law

He narrated day to day challenges encountered by the people of J&K with lack of basic rights which has also deprived the region from growth and prosperity.

He later interacted with the Faculty on various dimensions of the constitution relevant to J&K issue which led to an intriguing discussion on academic understanding through the lens of Legal Education. Faculty utilized the opportunity and enhanced their understanding on the issue.

2.8. Vidhi Vimarsh – The Hindi Pakhwada event

On the last day of Hindi Pakhwada, students of Jagran Lakecity University, JLU School of Law witnessed a startling session titled ‘Vidhi-Vimarsh – Aastha Banaam Andhviswaas’. Honorable Vice Chancellor of Atal Bihari Hindi University, Bhopal, (Dr.) Ramdev Bhardwaj was the Chief Guest with Shri Ramesh Sharma, Sr. Journalist & Vice – President, Rashtriya Ekta Parishad ,Bhopal as Guest of Honor. The inaugural session began with the lighting of lamps and thereafter felicitation of guests.

In pictures – (L) Dignitaries lighting the lamp to inaugurate Vidhi Vimarsh, (R) Prof. (Dr.) Ramdev Bhardwaj delivering the Key Note Address

Prof. (Dr) Yogendra Kumar Shrivastava, Director, SOL, JLU delivered the welcome address and set the theme for further discussion. He expressed his opinion on unfortunate killing of many women across India in the name of Witch-hunting and pointed out a definite need to formulate legislation through which such superstitions can be put to an end.

Prof. (Dr.) Ramdev Bharadwaj while addressing the gathering stressed on the fact that superstition is an evil practice which is born due to unawareness in the society. He described remedy to such practices can only be in the form of change which is to be brought in society by the people themselves as human psychology plays an important role in it.

The baton to ignite the minds of young law students was passed on to Shri Ramesh Sharma who in his vigorous and indefatigable address laid emphasis on preserving our culture and mother language ‘Hindi’ giving strong reasons behind the same and motivating students to become the Arjuna of Gita with fire burning inside them for acquiring more knowledge and defying superstition. Inaugural session ended with a vote of thanks delivered by Mr. Abhishek Kumar Jain, Assistant Professor, JLU School of Law.

In picture – Shri. Ramesh Sharma addressing the gathering

Mr. Shivender Rahul, Coordinator, Vidhi Vimarsh moderated the panel discussion. The esteemed panelist in the core session were Shri Surendra Bihari Goswami, Director, Hindi Granth Academy, Shri Sharad Dwivedi, Editor in Chief, Bansal News, Smt Shibani Ghosh , Social Activist, Shri Lokendra Parashar , Media In-charge , BJP, Shri Pankaj Chaturvedi – Spokesperson – Indian National Congress, Dr. Vishwas Chauhan , Professor of Law , State Law PG College , Bhopal, Shri Janak Bhatt , Author & Director , Pristine Ideas , Bhopal.

In picture – the distinguished panelists all set to begin discourse on Aastha banam Andhvishwas

Shri Surendra Goswami eloquently spoke on spirituality and distinguished it from religion. He was of the view that life can be enjoyed in fullest by having positive combination of spirituality and faith. Talking of superstition and conviction, he said that there is a minute difference between these two and having positive combination of spirituality and faith keeps a person on right side.

In picture – Shri. Surendra Goswami adding a touch of spirituality in his arguments

Eminent media personality, Shri. Sharad Dwivedi put forth his views succinctly and said that lack of self-confidence in person makes him follow the path of superstition. He motivated the students to be rational in their choices in order to be in right track and according to him, questioning is of utmost importance, in order to cure the superstitions.

In picture – Shri. Sharad Dwivedi talking about rationality in his address

Smt. Shibani Ghosh was next in order to put forth her views and being precise she rightly pointed out that work is all that matters and superstitions are born out of lack of knowledge which she illustrated through sharing her experience as a seasoned social worker.

In picture – Smt. Shibani Ghosh sharing incidents from her experiences in social work

Thereafter, Shri Lokendra Parashar in his address said that following anyone blindly is the reason behind the birth of superstition. Shri Parashar in his address cited various anecdotes from life of Philosopher Swami Vivekanand and the relationship with his mentor, His Holiness Ramkrishna Paramhans.

In picture– Shri. Lokendra Parashar addressing the audience

Next to him Shri Pankaj Chaturvedi agreeing on most of the points presented by previous speakers persuaded the budding lawyers that as we lay more importance to evidence and since superstition has no force of evidence to support its existence therefore, it shouldn't be followed.

In picture – Shri. Pankaj Chaturvedi sharing his opinion

Dr. Vishwas Chauhan was next to address the students and by citing various provisions of constitution of India and interpreting them in a specific way established that superstition is a negative element existing in the society where even freedom of religion is subjected to public order, morality and health.

In picture– Dr. Chauhan addressing the audience

Shri Janak Bhatt cited various anecdotes from his life and explained the reasons for existence of superstition. Shri Bhatt asserted that, poor understanding of 'conviction', weakness of human and numerous tough situations, which person faces, results into superstition.

In picture – Shri. Janak Bhatt sharing his opinion on the issue

In the last part of core session, questions were posed to panelists by moderator and students in order to know their views on various issues. Panelists responded to those questions in the positive manner and answered them without any inhibitions. Core session ended with a vote of thanks delivered by Mr. Deevanshu Shrivastava, Assistant Professor, School of Law followed by the national anthem.

It was indeed an unforgettable session having representatives from Politics, Media, Academia, and Social Work to produce a riveting analysis of such a delicate issue.

2.9. Orientation Workshop on “Gender biased Sex Selection and Declining Sex Ratio in India”

In picture – Ms. Shilpi Agnani making her presentation

25th January, 2018 marked a very special and remarkable day for JLU School of Law as our Legal Aid Clinic organized a one day orientation workshop on “Gender biased Sex Selection and Declining Sex Ratio in India” in collaboration with Samarthan and Girls Count, renowned organizations working in the field of rights of women. This initiative is supported by UN Women and National Foundation for India.

In pictures – Dr. Birpal Singh, Professor NLIU Bhopal interacting with the students

The event was organized to address the rampant gender-based discrimination in our country. Major issues like misuse of sex determination technology (ultrasound), girls being denied access to nutrition, domestic abuse of girl child, etc. were deliberated extensively during the workshop.

In the expert panel, we had the privilege of having Dr. Mona Purohit, Senior Professor, Department of Legal Studies and Research, Barkatullah University, Bhopal, Dr. Bir Pal Singh, Senior Professor, National Law Institute University, Bhopal, Ms. Shilpi Agnani from the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) and Mr. Ameya from the Centre for Social Justice, Bhopal.

Panelists shared their expertise with the students in various pertinent areas such as the framework of the Pre-Conception and Pre-Natal Diagnostic Techniques (PCPNDT) Act, 1994 and the role of paralegals in its implementation, socio-legal aspects of gender-biased sex selection and social implications of gender bias.

The students actively participated in the workshop and asked many contemporary and relevant questions from the panelists.

3. Guest Lectures

3.1. Lecture by Dr. Garima Tiwari

Legal Research is an avenue through which bright professionals have been unleashing their potential while giving substantial inputs to reveal crucial facts that can change the way of practice in future. Having a strong belief in the above mentioned fact, Jagran Lakecity

In pictures – (L) Dr. Garima Tiwari explaining nuances of legal research, (R) students listening to every single detail

University, JLU School of Law invited Dr. Garima Tiwari, an alumna of the University of Camerino, Italy to enlighten students on the importance of Legal Research.

Dr. Garima Tiwari began her lecture by sharing her experience as a research scholar at School of Law, University of Camerino, Italy. She emphasized on the importance of research internships and field study which could be conducted during the internships. By giving example of Juvenile Justice Act she advocated the need of legal researchers in the present scenario and need of thorough empirical analysis while drafting any legislation. In addition, she motivated students to consider legal research as a career option and informed about the vastness of its scope and benefits.

Dr. Tiwari had a very productive interaction with the students in which she cleared their queries regarding the process of initiating a research, selection of tools for research, international institutions offering scholarships, etc.

3.2. Lecture by Mr. Harsh Vardhan Chandola

“Critical thinking, empathy and problem solving.”

Students of B.B.A., LL.B. and B.Com., LL.B. (Seventh and Fifth Semesters) had the opportunity to hear one of the brilliant young minds in the field of economics, intellectual property rights and allied areas, Mr. Harsh Vardhan Chandola, who has been working in the aforementioned fields since 2004.

In picture –Mr. Harsh Vardhan Chandola interacting with the students

Mr. Chandola is an alumnus of NLIU, Bhopal. He was awarded with the prestigious Fulbright Scholarship to pursue Masters in Law in Intellectual Property from Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, USA. In 2012, he pursued European Masters in Law and Economics from University of Hamburg and Erasmus University Rotterdam through the Erasmus Mundus Scholarship. He has recently started his own venture and is an extremely talented IPR scholar.

After being welcomed and introduced by Mr. Deevanshu Shrivastava, Assistant Professor, Mr. Chandola began his session by sharing his experience of foreign education and his life as a curious scholar and then shared his remarkable research work in the field of IPR and related issues. Instead of focusing on the core law part he discussed the basic needs of a system to promote creation of intellectual property. He drew an impressive comparison of India with other developed countries and shared his views pertaining to the steps that India should take in order to be a pro-IP nation.

In picture –Students giving a patient hearing to the guest

Mr. Chandola concluded his session by motivating the students to do smart research in the field of IPR and come up with their own inputs to improve the existing scenario.

In the interactive session, students raised queries such as the process of applying for foreign scholarships, the future of IPR in India, etc. Overall, it was an enriching session for the students.

3.3. Lecture by Honourable Mr. Justice (Retd.) Alok Sharma

On January 22, 2018, Jagran Lakecity University, JLU School of Law had the privilege of having Honorable Justice (Retd.) Shri. Alok Verma, High Court of Madhya Pradesh in the campus to deliver the Igniting Minds Lecture on the topic ‘Temporary Injunction’.

Justice Verma discussed the concept of injunction at length in which he covered various pertinent legal provisions from the Specific Relief Act and the Code of Civil Procedure.

He dealt with many facets of injunction which included grounds required for granting of injunction, procedure to be followed before sending a person to civil prison in case of breach of injunction order, difference between temporary and permanent injunction, precautions to be taken before granting ex-parte injunction and mechanism of appeal against an injunction order.

The session was really fruitful for our third and fourth year students as it provided a keen understanding of the civil procedure pertaining to injunctions.

JLU School of Law extends its heartfelt gratitude to Hon'ble Justice Verma for interacting with the future leaders of the profession.
